

MUNA Summer School 2021

Esteemed Colleagues of the MUNA Community,

It is now time to start our collaboration for which we are proposing a first virtual (unfortunately) SUMMER SCHOOL that will be held from 13th to 16th September 2021.

The fields of study that we suggest will be focused on trans-disciplinary perspectives related to these three main topics:

- MARE NOSTRUM (our Sea, the Mediterranean)
- PERSONA (the Person)
- ORBIS (the Earth)

We would like to involve all of the experts of the MUNA Network Universities and also, with particular attention, the contributions of Young researchers.

Shortly, we will present our selected topics but we are open to all suggestions coming from your own Institutions (who want to participate, please send to us a 350 word's abstract).

We are hoping that this initiative will allow us to get to know each other better and to share projects. All in an effort toward promoting a further international collaboration while, at the same time, stimulating all the participants to go further.

Obviously, we kindly ask You to extend this invitation to all Your competent colleagues, but first of all, to Your younger researchers, PhDs, and students, to take part in the Summer School, which this year will be totally virtual.

For each topic, we anticipate the possible participation of three Young Researchers.

At the end of the Summer School the attendee who will be considered the best performing "student" will receive an Award for her/his contribution including a two-week internship at Federico II University including Hotel Accommodation and round trip expenses.

Looking forward to receiving your enrollments and any feedback or suggestions you wish to send.

Best regards,

Prof. Gilberto Sammartino
